

World's First Amputee Model and Pop Singer Shows Off Her Futuristic Leg Prosthetics in her New Music Video

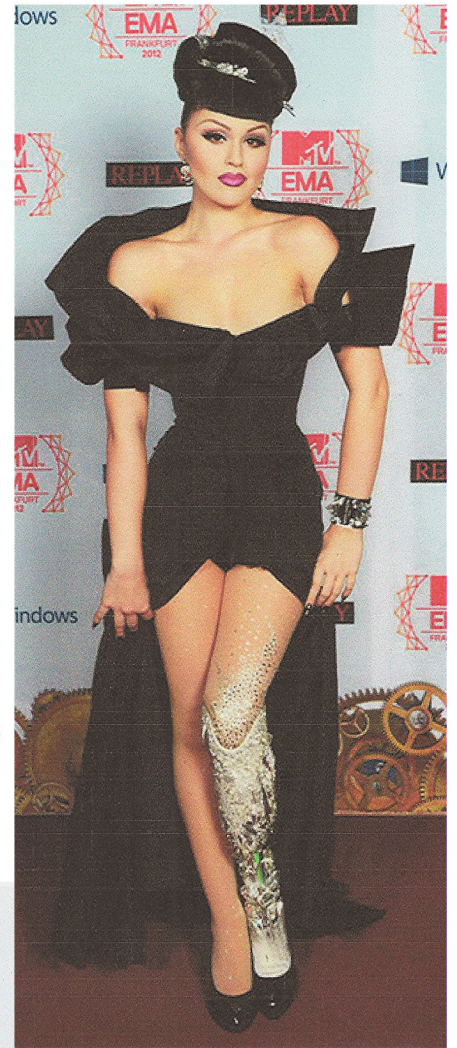

Latvia-born pop singer and model Victoria Modesta sports her gorgeously futuristic leg prosthetics in her new music video "Prototype" produced by BBC Channel 4

Being the first known leg amputee pop star, she tries to encourage people with disabilities and challenge the pop scene beauty standards.

Modesta's leg and hip were dislocated during her birth, which made her childhood quite challenging, both physically and emotionally.

After many unfruitful surgeries throughout her life, the young woman decided to finally get her leg amputated, which eventually freed her from all of her problems and complexes.

Now, Modesta is proud of what she went through and is happy to encourage young people with her art to never give up on their dreams, no matter what their physical disabilities.
